

05/25/11 - Fava Bean Hummus

Wednesday's Santa Monica Farmers' Market had so many treasures on display including huge piles of fresh, puffy, bright green fava beans. Luckily, McGrath's Family Farm stand sells fresh shelled fava beans in ½ pound and 1 pound bags.

Fava beans or Ava Frescas, or some call them Ful, are a Sephardic and Mediterranean favorite. There are many dishes such as favas stewed with lamb, favas with artichoke hearts, and favas with fried onions and tomato sauce to name a Recently at several trendy restaurants here in Los Angeles I noticed dishes like seared salmon served over a bed of pureed fava with mint. Or some flavored fava puree served with hot from the oven foccacia. Wonderful!

Last Friday night I tried my hand at fava bean spread or hummus for the Shabbat Challah. Try this you won't be disappointed. It is so healthy and delicious.

To make Fava Bean Hummus you will need:

1 pound of shelled fresh fava beans

1/4 cup or to taste fresh lemon juice

1/4 cup tahini paste

1 teaspoon salt or to taste

1/4 cup extra virgin olive oil

1 cup loosely packed mint leaves

Wash the fava beans and if they are not shelled, shell them. Place the fava beans in a shallow pan and cover with cold water. Bring the liquid to a boil and boil the beans for about 3-5 minutes in order that they cook through and release the second skin. Rinse the favas under cold water and peel off the second skin. Place the drained beans in a food processor with the rest of the ingredients. Pulse to puree. Taste and adjust salt and lemon to your liking.

This keeps refrigerated for up to a week. Serve it as a spread, garnish or bed of vegetable under grilled fish or chicken. I served the fava bean hummus at a Friday night dinner of Challah, grilled veal chops, baked sweet potatoes, steamed asparagus, and Brussels sprouts.

+ Share / Save f t g +

Related posts:

1. Ava Frescas con Anjinaras or Fava Beans with Artichokes
2. Spicy Hummus
3. Black Bean and Fresh Corn Salad
4. Green Bean and Tomato Stew (Fasoulia con Tomat y Carne)
5. Quinoa Pilaf for Spring

Related posts brought to you by Yet Another Related Posts Plugin.