

10/08/12 - Menu for a Sukkot Party 2012

Tomorrow marks the last day of the annual month long group of holidays that usher in the Jewish New Year. This year flew by, but all things considered it was a lot of eating and a lot of cooking. Starting with two nights of Rosh Hashanah on September 16th, two lunches, and then Shabbat dinner on the September 21st; next I brought two cakes to the Yom Kippur breakfast at auntie Francine's; and Friday night another Shabbat dinner on September 28th. Sukkot started on September 30th, I gave a small dinner party (grilled steak and Persian rice); Monday night we dined at cousin Pegi's, I contributed brisket, and two cakes, and finally Wednesday night October 3rd was my big hurrah party with all of the cousins, 23 people. I

Shabbat Friday October 5th and one more round of Sunday and Monday holiday nights and now we can all go on a diet! As of last Wednesday I had managed to keep the weight gain to a reasonable amount but all of that stuff in my home is just too tempting, the great give away has begun. I give some to my cooking helper and clean up person, some to my husband's secretaries, some to the kids and their roommates. I try to load everyone up with care packages of dessert at the end of the evening. Finally I will be able to turn off the extra refrigerator (the third refrigerator), that old restaurant electricity guzzler.

To get back to my dairy, vegetarian, feast. I will list the menu and plan to post some of the recipes that are new within the coming weeks. Many of the recipes are already on my site and I will link them so you can find them easily.

Serves 20-30

Main Buffet:

Cheese and Potato Borekas

Spinach and Cheese Boyus

Individual Zucchini Quajados

Individual Spinach Frittatas

Individual Vegetable Lasagnas

Heirloom Tomato Ricotta and Basil Crostinis

Mushroom, Onion and Fig with Goat Cheese Crostinis

Alder Smoked Salmon

Pepper Smoked Salmon

Teriyaki Salmon Jerky

Panko Crusted Halibut Filets

Baby Romaine Lettuce Caesar Salads with Parmesan Crouton

Parmesan Frico (crisps)

Israeli Salad

Greek Salad

Tabouleh Salad

Tomato Salad with Jalapeño

Oven Roasted French Beans

Oven Roasted Baby Multi-colored Carrots

Oven Roasted Cherry Tomatoes

Guacamole

Lemon

Dessert Table:

Assorted Biscotti

Raspberry Coffee Cake

Nectarine Yogurt Cake With Caramel

Fig Caramel Cake

Assorted Chocolates

Triple Layer Chocolate Cake

Coconut Cake With Cream Cheese Frosting

Garnet Yam Cake With Candies Pecans

Related Posts

Rosh Hashanah begins September 13th 2015 at sundown or 1st of Tishrei 5776.

-

Rosh Hashanah Dinner 2011 Menu

-

Father's Day 2015 Menu

-

Boyos de Spinaca

-

Sukkot Menu and Pictures

+ Share / Save f t ↗